

NATURAL STONE

Maintenance

Cleaning

- Regular cleaning is important to guard against the build up of potentially damaging influences. It is advisable to reserve cleaning cloths and mops exclusively for use on your stone finishes - residue from other cleaning products can work against your best efforts!

Don't use harsh alkaline or acid based cleaners. Similarly don't use abrasive cream cleaners or scouring products of any type

- We recommend the use of clean white (or colourless) cloths for benchtops and vanities. There is no problem using synthetic sponges, but they do tend to leave streaks on a highly polished surface.
- Cooking oils, exotic recipes, sauces, wines, fruit juices and soft drinks are all present in the abundance at any family gathering or party. It is important at any time to clean up spills as soon as they are detected, the longer they left unattended the greater potential for damage.

Sealer

- Sealing a marble or granite surface is essential to protect against everyday spills and staining. Sealers must be applied periodically to the surface depending on the wear and tear on the surface.
